[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO OCT. 27

Dispatches via London

LONDON Oct 27—The Prussians again announce that fire will be opened on Paris on the 29th inst.

Gen Cambriels claims a French victory at Chatillon le Duc.

Belgium is again sending troops to the front.

The French regard England's last effort at mediation with distrust.

It is reported that Queen Victoria has written to King William urging him to moderate his demands.

A dispatch is received from Metz which states that all endeavors on the part of the Bonapartists through Bazaine by which the Empire could be restored in case of the Empress becoming Regent have been abandoned. All hopes of peace are therefore now at an end and peace can only now be gained by the intervention of neutral powers.

The Berlin Provincial Correspondence semi-official says the fact of an armistice is little to be founded as the French refuse to recognize the helplessness of their cause.

The delay in the bombardment of Paris is due to the imperfect state of our preparations—not to political considerations.

The Prussians have impressed miners into service to repair railways from the German frontier to Paris.

The arrival of Thiers at Versailles is expected to day.

The Tours government is firm in its refusal to enter on any negotiations involving the surrender of territory.

In the combat on the 22d, the Germans lost about 100 killed and wounded. The French loss was serious.

BERLIN Oct 26—Herr Jacoby and seven other political prisoners have been released.

Affairs at Paris

LONDON Oct 26—The following are Herald cable dispatches:

A private letter from Paris Oct 18th says all is going on comfortably at present. No starvation nor bombardment as yet. The city is perfectly tranquil. Mobiles are gradually becoming soldiers but by no means soldiers yet. Bismarck seems disposed to allow the American legation to receive a weekly mail bag through the Prussian lines but absolutely refuses to allow a messenger. I look upon Paris as impregnable to assault. Until one or more forts are taken no great danger is anticipated from bombardment. Famine is all we fear. That it is supposed will begin to pinch cruelly towards December. About two thirds of the Americans here want to leave. They are tired of the situation. Prussians will let them go directly but the French interpose objections being afraid of the moral effect upon the population at seeing so many strangers depart. It will end, I suppose, in their going in small numbers at different times.

German Losses

A Herald Berlin letter, dated the 24th, says: A single battalion of Landwehr under Gen Kummer at Metz in repelling Bazaine's sortie on the 7th lost over 400 fathers of families leaving as many bereaved widows and orphans.

In the suburbs of Berlin the shops of smaller mechanics are closed, so are small butchers, bakers, etc. The citizens are all gone to the front, say the written placards on doors of shops and lodgings. These and other evidences of distress of the people have aroused a feeling in favor of immediate peace.

Dispatch from Trieste.

TRIESTE Oct 26—Government has sent a frigate to Marseilles to protect the interests of Austrian subjects.

King William's position as Prussian leader is by no means the same now as at the opening of the war when everybody approved the situation and was willing to make sacrifices in that country. Now the people are dissatisfied with the ... and unwilling to go further for purposes of ambition or aggrandizement.

Uneasiness in England

LONDON Oct 26—The World's special says great uneasiness is caused in the minds of the English ministry by the guarded but absolute refusal of Russia to take any part in the recent English attempt at negotiating peace. The Chief of the Cabinet of Russia, the Chancellor, after passing three days at Brussels went to Tours at the beginning of last week and is expected in London to night. It is feared that Russia is quietly negotiating on her own account with the view of isolating Great Britain in the Eastern question both from France and Germany. The attitude of the Austrian government too, though at first regarded as decided and encouraging to England's proposition, is now pronounced unsatisfactory in a high degree. The steps taken by the English Government have resulted only in mortification to the Gladstone Ministry and in exposing the weakness of the influence of England without in any way contributing to advance the prospects of a settlement.

No tidings have been received of the missing boats of the steamer Cambria and it is now thought that they went down with the ship.

From Spain

MADRID Oct 26—Vomito has again appeared at Barcelona and mortality is increasing.

LONDON Oct 26—It is understood that the Madrid Government awaits Prussia's approval of the nomination of the Duke of Aosta to the Spanish throne.

Miscellaneous

LONDON Oct. 26—Correspondents report that Paris is girdled with ruin and the country outside the walls is desolate.

TOURS Oct 26—A messenger from the Government who has important news to communicate will essay the hazardous experiment of visiting Paris by balloon.

LONDON Oct 26—Bismarck's constant answer to appeals daily made to him for peace is that the election by the French people of some authorized government is an indispensable preliminary.

General Military Movements

NEW YORK Oct 2—A correspondent at the headquarters of the German army writes on the 20th that the Saxons at Aulnay, Sevran, Livrey, Vergallant and other points around the forts were kept on the alert night and day. At Chatenay and Sceaux the Bavarians were nightly disturbed by falling shells. The besiegers have not yet replied with a single cannon. No secret is made of the fact that they do not intend to commence until they have brought heavy guns into position to bombard effectually. A number of guns have been brought up by slow and painful process having been dragged over common roads. Guns of larger calibre cannot be moved in that way but must wait until both ... of travel of material are removed and bridges over the Marne rebuilt. The latter work is nearly completed but the former is not. When the guns are up nobody here has the slightest doubt of the result, still men are getting impatient of delay. Casualties are not great but with constant firing from forts the number is considerable.

The Prussians investing Verdun recently sent a communication to the Mayor of the town demanding its surrender. The Mayor indignantly refused inviting the Prussians. That if they thought the town would be an easy prey to come forward and take it.

News from Metz is interesting and important. Rumors are again current in the Prussian army that Bazaine is dead, but they are now proved false. The activity of the garrison has been greatly increased lately and the Prussians have been compelled to destroy bridges at Ars sur ... as a precautionary measure.

The French make vigorous sorties whenever they see the slightest opportunity for advantage. It is also reported that the artillery on the right bank of the Moselle whereby the villages of Grenay and Courcy gave the Prussians shelter have been utterly destroyed.

TOURS Oct 2 The ... upon Amiens has been checked by recent ... by the French.

Garibaldi ever since he took command has acted vigorously and taken many prisoners and cannon and accomplished the object for which he set forth.

The Prussians treat French inhabitants with needless inhumanity, destroying farming utensils, looms and manufactories, tearing down dwellings, killing horses and cattle and destroying all the food they cannot eat or carry away.

NONANCOURT, Oct 25 via Tours Oct 27—The Prussians are at Dreux in the Department of Eure twelve thousand men and much artillery. They have also occupied Varenay and Surarre.

LILLE Oct 26 via Tours Oct ... St Quentin has been evacuated. Amiens has not yet been attacked. The Prussians retreated suddenly without commencing hostilities and are now concentrating at Ham. The siege of La Ferte abandoned. A large portion of the army of Duke Mecklenburg Schwerin is moving hastily towards Paris.

TOURS Oct ... It is announced that the Prussians have consented to allow Thiers a safe conduct to Versailles but no further. Thiers refuses to avail himself of this as he must first confer with the Government of Paris.

German Ships Burnt

SHIELDS, England Oct 2 It is reported here on the best of authority that two German ships were captured by French cruisers in the English Channel and burnt about 100 miles east of Bristol.

Dispatches from Tours

LONDON Oct 26—The Prussians are persevering in their starvation policy at Paris and Metz. All fugitives from those cities are hurried back.

The English Government is still without a reply from the Prussian authorities as to the request for safe conduct for Thiers to enter Paris. The English accept the delay as an indisposition on the part of Prussia to grant an armistice.

No doubt the French Provisional Government will soon be obliged to leave Tours. Arrangements are now making for transferring national headquarters to Clermont in the Department of de Puy de Dome.

LONDON Oct 26—The stern of the Cambria drifted ashore at Islay Scotland. So far as known there is but one survivor—McLaughlin.

It is reported that England, Prussia and Italy have acquiesced in the advocacy of Aosta for the Spanish crown.

Capitulation of Metz 150,000 Prisoners Taken

BERLIN Oct 27—The King telegraphs to the Queen to day: This morning Bazaine and Metz capitulated. One hundred and fifty thousand prisoners including 20 000 sick and wounded of the garrison laid down their arms. One of the most important events of the war. Providence be thanked. (Signed) WILLIAM

French Official Orders

TOURS Oct 27 The newly appointed director of Travels Publiques issued a circular addressed to the Prefects of the several departments intimating that parties who furnish provisions for the enemy willingly and with the hope of gain are to be tried by Court Martial as traitors. Gambetta also notified Prefects that they must impress upon the Mayors of the different towns in their Departments the imperative duty of defending every town. Those who fail to do so will be dismissed and towns themselves officially denounced.

The inhabitants of the departments of Jura and Vosges have forwarded a petition to the authorities here against the acceptance of any peace based on the surrender of an inch of French territory.

Letters for Paris

The Moniteur announces that persons desirous to send letters to Paris may send them to the Prefecture at Tours. The Administration will forward them, as it is determined to break the blockade which the enemy is endeavoring to establish.

New Government for Algeria

The offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor of Algeria are suppressed and a new government instituted under Prefects and a civil Governor General who will be allowed to choose deputies. Henry Bidler is appointed Governor General with a salary of 50 000 francs. General Lallamand is appointed Commander in Chief of the army and navy. Native Jews now there are decreed citizens of France.

From Orleans and Marseilles.

Information from Orleans says that all the shops and stores are closed and the streets deserted by the inhabitants. Women are almost universally in mourning. Prussian officers endeavored to dispel the gloom ineffectually.

At Marseilles affairs were orderly. The journals recently suppressed were allowed to reappear by an order from Gambetta. The Civic Guard is less unruly and the authorities and citizens pay little regard to it.

ROUEN Oct 26—The enemy on leaving Gisors attacked Longchamps with 900 men and four ... They were driven off by the Francs Tireurs and other troops.

NOGENT Oct 26 Nogent was evacuated by the Prussians last night. Before leaving they fired the town in several places.

Terms of Peace Proposed by Neutral Powers.

LONDON, Oct 27—The Manchester Guardian gives the following terms of peace which were proposed by England, Russia and Austria: First, no cession of territory. Second, fortifications of Metz and Strasburg to be razed. Third, France to pay 900 millions of francs indemnity. The neutrals are to guarantee peace.

Interior California Dispatches

LOS ANGELES Oct 27—It commenced raining heavily on Tuesday night and has continued with slight interruption until this hour.

OAKLAND Oct 27—About an hour after a row at the chinese shanties on San Pablo road last night had occurred four chinamen entered the village and drawing their revolvers prevented residents from making any resistance while they carried away two prostitutes, put them in a hack which was waiting and drove off.

About 1 o'clock this morning detective Wooley was notified of the fact, and taking two special policemen with him started in pursuit. In Brooklyn he found the hack which the kidnappers had used and learned from the driver that the chinamen had taken the women to an old shanty at Kimball's Landing. Here they found a party of women half naked and men preparing a boat with which to proceed down the Creek with their captives to San Francisco. All were arrested and are now in jail waiting an examination.

Intervention of the Neutral Powers for an Armistice

ST PETERSBURG Oct 27—The following summary of negotiations on the part of the neutral Powers of Europe for an armistice is published from authentic sources: After reciting the determination of neutrals to seize the first opportunity for mediation that presented itself the document proceeds to treat on Russia and on Jules Favre's visit to the Prussian headquarters. It was believed that the long looked for opportunity had arrived at this moment for the reception of the Prussian note on this subject. The probable early starvation in Paris causes a change in ideas. When however they pressed the subject of mediation again Russia held back on the ground that mediation unsupported by force would be worthless. The conditions of peace must be left exclusively to the belligerents, still it is possible to convoke a National Assembly which alone is competent to decide the question of peace or war. In view of these considerations it was England that proposed the armistice and in this she is supported by all neutral Powers.

General News

General Garibaldi is still at Dole where, notwithstanding his indisposition, he personally superintends the organizing of the French troops. He has collected a strong force which is subjected to most stringent discipline.

Several sharp engagements have occurred with considerable loss on both sides.

TOURS Oct 27—Journals announce a long interview yesterday, between Lord Lyons and Thiers.

It is reported that Mazzini left Italy on his way to Tours.

The English at Paris are under the protection of Minister Washburne. The British Ambassador is not recognized by the Republican Government and has no authority to act.

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO Oct ... John C Pelton late Superintendent of Public Schools continues in a critical condition from a recent affray.

Several of the twenty shares of original interest in the Northern or San Francisco and Humboldt Railroad, now finished from Petaluma to Santa Rosa, have been transferred this week and it is suspected that they are being bought up for the account of parties interested in the Central Pacific.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 28, 1870

Refreshing Innocence

[illegible] Secretary Cox gives a certain class [illegible] an opportunity to declaim on the evils of the system of political and party management. They say that Cox was driven to resign because he took [illegible] way of politicians [illegible] manage his department in the interests of the Republican party [illegible] run as a party machine, and that his removals or appointments should be made for political reasons. But the President, who has a short and direct way of carrying out his purposes, promptly [illegible] of the Secretary's regulations and the latter at once resigned. All this is deplored by a certain class of goodish persons who think that in carrying out the affairs of the government party should not be considered, and at the same time Democrats should be eligible to office as well as Republicans. [illegible] they would go further and have the administration show [illegible] by giving a little preference to Democrats.

The innocence of all this is amusing. Such verdancy is edifying. This country will always be controlled by one party or another. And if a party after making a severe struggle and winning a victory concludes to give away the material profits and emoluments thereof to its adversaries, [illegible] share the profits with them, it will not soon gain another triumph. It is an accepted maxim in this country that a political party is entitled to the legitimate fruits of its victories. Both parties act on this theory. The idea that the Secretary of the Interior should put persons opposed politically to the Administration and the Republican party into subordinate positions in his Department, and not use the patronage of the Department for the advantage of the party that placed President Grant and the Secretary where they are, is quite as absurd as to suppose the present Governor of Oregon will use the influence and patronage at his disposal to give the State to Republicans in the next election.

Gen. Jackson's administration was successful. He remembered his friends. He made the system a thorough one, and since his day the Democratic party whenever and wherever in power has followed his example. General Grant is a good President and thoroughly true to his party. He knows how to care for the public interests, and at the same time he recognizes and puts in practice the only theory on which a party can be maintained. If Secretary Cox is possessed of an idea that it is necessary for the good of the country to throw the patronage of the administration into Democratic hands and thus build that party up, the appointment of his successor cannot come too soon. There are solid political reasons for a change in that Department.

England's Uneasiness

Dispatches to-day give further accounts of the solicitude of Great Britain at the consequences which may happen to her in case of the complete prostration of France. In the event that France is crushed it is quite evident that England will lose the only backer she can rely on to help her hold in check Russian designs in the East. This idea is elaborated in a recent letter from London to the New York Times. "If England," says that writer, "gets into a war some day with a great European power on the Eastern question, where is the ally who can bring fleets and armies to aid her? England loses her own right arm when France perishes. And France must perish if her safety depends on foreign aid. Whatever may be the feelings or wishes of Austria, her Government is paralyzed by Russia. While Prussia takes as much of France as she cares to annex, Russia will settle the Eastern question, and then they will divide Austria between them. Then there will be but two Great Powers in Europe. England will lose Canada, which will go to the United States, and India, which will be governed by Russia. Australia will soon become independent, and the diamond fields of South Africa will be the foundation of a new Empire. Deprived of her colonies and possessions, England will take rank with Spain or Holland. The Great Powers will be America, Germany, Russia. All other nations will exist by the sufferance of these, and those which are not too distant or isolated will be absorbed as they are needed." These ideas will render intelligible the present uneasiness of Great Britain and her desire to bring about peace between Germany and France before the latter shall be so exhausted and crushed as to be unable to lend such co-operation and aid to England as will preserve something like the old balance of power and keep Russia out of Constantinople and India.

The Subsidy

We shall not undertake to say that Mr. Lansing Stout, State Senator, is wrong in his statement that the Oregonian [illegible] the sentiments of a large proportion of the people of [illegible], but we beg to correct his assertion that the Oregonian has not favored [illegible] proposition to grant a subsidy to bring the west side railroad into the city. The facts [illegible] will attest the proposition was first made by the Oregonian. Some weeks ago when it became evident that unless this city should do something the road would cross at Oswego and run into East Portland, this paper stated the situation and suggested the [illegible] plan for aiding the road which has [illegible] adopted. We then showed how, as it appeared to us, the constitutional objection to the subsidy might be avoided, and the best Democratic lawyer in the Assembly [illegible] the idea. This paper has constantly urged that, while it would not be disastrous to Portland for the west side road to terminate across the river, it would yet be worth far more than $300,000 [illegible] to the city for it to terminate here. We regret that Mr. Stout has not more closely and carefully read a journal whose opinions he thinks fit, when it suits him, to commend so highly.

The Controller of the City of New York refuses to make public the state of the city finances. Tammany's largest robberies are now in progress [illegible] for the election. The New York [illegible] gives the figures of the tax levy at over $3[illegible] 000,000, the largest ever known in any city of the world.

In the Twenty sixth Congressional District of New York the Republicans on the 15th inst. nominated Thomas C. Platt for Congress on the ten hundred and twenty second ballot. The Convention was in session three weeks.

The census gives the City of Newark a population of about 10[illegible] 000, which is a gain of nearly 100 per cent in the last ten years.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

(FROM [illegible] CORRESPONDENT.)

SALEM, Wednesday [illegible]

The House amendments to the Senate bill to amend the Charter of Portland (the railroad bill) being under consideration in the Senate this morning, Mr. Brown of Baker opened the battle [illegible] denouncing the bill as a fraud upon the people [illegible] of the city had sent up [illegible] remonstrances [illegible]. His principal object one however seemed to be that Eastern Oregon had asked for certain measures which had been denied, while this bill was pushed through in advance of many bills which had been dear to his soul [illegible]. It struck me however that the [illegible] gentleman was slightly muddled as to who had been the friends and who the enemies of Eastern Oregon measures. The fact is that most of those measures had been defeated by the very men who were the enemies of this railroad bill, while the friends of this bill had most uniformly favored the bills for Eastern Oregon. He threatened to make it very hot for certain Eastern Oregon men when he should get home. This was an utter indiscriminate [illegible] in the dark, because there was no Eastern Oregon man who had failed to come to [illegible] measures for that [illegible]. Mr. Hendershott got in a good thing in the shape of a query to Mr. Brown—(as to the haste with which this bill had been put through)—How much longer did it take the gentleman from Baker to get his bill through for that [illegible] academy than had been required to put this bill through? Mr. Brown had nothing to reply except that his bill was a [illegible] and that it had been lost forty times than to have seen the passage of many measures which had been passed. Thus much Brown of Baker.

Next came Mosher with an objection that the bill was [illegible] though not technically unconstitutional. He had evidently forgotten that only a few days ago he had voted for the [illegible] bill which authorizes the contraction of indebtedness in a manner precisely similar to this. Singular how short our memories are. Mr. Mosher in the course of his remarks admitted in distinct terms that during this session the Democratic majority had been compelled to violate not only the Constitution but Democratic principles. They had done this in passing the Portland Police bill. The necessity for it was that the city had fallen under the rule of a dangerous monopoly—a monster corporation. That was the only excuse for it, and now we are asked, he said, to give that monster twenty one thousand dollars a year to enable the head of it to carry the city Republican for the next twenty years. Thus much Mosher.

Mr. Cochran moved that the whole matter be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Stout, who has been dubbed by one of the wits of the Senate "Ephraim Smooth," now essayed the personation of the character of "Weeping Jeremiah." He felt himself called upon to protest against the passage of this bill as the last sad duty he should ever perform as a Senator. (Most likely.) In making this announcement Mr. Stout was excessively pathetic, [illegible] and as I thought evidently laughing on the verge, as it were, of dissolving into tears. But thanks to the restraining power of proud manhood he did not actually blubber, though I would not swear there was not in his voice something like a decided snivel. He desired to call attention to the fact that he had not seen in the Oregonian a single sentence in advocacy of this bill, and he thought that very significant, inasmuch as the Oregonian reflects the sentiment of a large proportion of the people of Portland. Complimentary to the Oregonian, was it not? He wanted to know if it was right to levy this tribute on Portland, why not levy it upon the counties of Washington, Yamhill and other west side counties. The bill was a fraud upon Portland. Had it provided for loaning the city's credit, he would not have been opposed to it. Inasmuch as the persons who seek this subsidy are the same who were instrumental in carrying the city Republican last election, the measure looked like a scheme to carry the city Republican 800 instead of 400 majority. It would have that effect at all events. [And that's what's the matter with Hannah.] Besides this cogent reason for refusing the subsidy, he thought it a very dangerous thing to give so much power to any one man or one monopoly. The last few strains were pathetic and affecting—muchly. Thus much Stout.

Mr. Cochrane next entered a majestic protest. His soul was in arms at a suspicion which had crept into the said soul to the effect that the person or persons who were after this subsidy did not intend or expect to get a single dollar [illegible]. There was a power which attempted last June to overpower the people. It had failed, and now it had come here to overpower this Legislature. To what Ciceronian heights the gentleman from Lane might have risen will never be known—his speech was cut short by a point of order, one of those points well taken which has punctured so many balloons during this session and let so many big figures suddenly down from the regions of aerial glory into mundane mud flats—prepared for flats. He concluded with a growl that it was of no use to protest and of no use to appeal. Thus much Cochran.

Mr. Burch could not see the force of the charge that this bill is a fraud upon the people of Portland, inasmuch as about 1,500 citizens had petitioned for it. Those opposed to it had ample notice of it and they had apparently exerted themselves strenuously to obtain a remonstrance from Portland, but they had come here with a remonstrance containing only 116 names. A comparison of these two documents was conclusive with him, and he must believe that a majority of them want the bill passed. If those men [illegible] that we hear so much about are so much opposed to the bill, why are they not here?

At this point Mr. Stout, who had recovered from his attack of "last sad duty," put in with: Their names are on the remonstrance; they are not here because they are not lobbyists.

Mr. Burch—I remember that two years ago they were lobbyists. [Laughter.]

Mr. Baldwin repeated his former argument (that's what he called it). Mr. Newby then poured out the vials of his wrath upon the heads of the monopoly, pronounced the bill unconstitutional and inquired with much [illegible] what is this yer bill for? Nobody came [illegible] the divided [illegible] and so Newby [illegible] quit.

The question was then taken upon each of the House amendments and they were adopted by a vote of [illegible] as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Brown of Marion, Burch, Cornelius, Hendershott, Hollister, Moores, Patterson, Powell, Strahan, Thompson, Trevett and Mr. President.

Nays—Messrs. Baldwin, Brown of Baker, Cochran, Crawford, Hault, [illegible], Mosher, Newby and Stout.

SALEM, Thursday [illegible] 15.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

The sixth regular session of the Oregon Legislature has passed into history. [illegible] it has been an eminent success. Whatever it did that was bad it did with premeditation, and whatever that was good [illegible] by chance [illegible]. As an expurger of [illegible] noxious political elements it has never in the past had an equal, and is not likely to have in the future any superior. Its particular eminence was that it was Democratic, which the reader of its history would have known without being told. It began its career with a triumphal [illegible] happy boyhood [illegible] that all departments of the [illegible] Democratic [illegible]. In the effectual doing of that work it achieved its most distinguishing success. Not a Radical now remains in all the realms of State office [illegible] to tell the tale of its slaughters and victories. When it had accomplished [illegible] it wound itself a Democratic winding sheet (foolscap) whereon was inscribed the articles of faith from [illegible] down to October [illegible] 1870, including time honored usages [illegible] State rights [illegible] Radical usurpation [illegible] compulsory [illegible] equitable adjustment [illegible]. And so [illegible] lived and died. Tableaux and drinks. Let us have peace.

THE [illegible] COMMITTEE.

I have already mentioned the adoption of a resolution providing for a commission to investigate the affairs of the Penitentiary, the offices of Secretary, Treasurer, Governor, Penitentiary Commissioners, etc. The resolution originated in the Senate. When it went into the House it was [illegible] on motion of Mr. Dunbar [illegible] the duties of the [illegible] for the building [illegible] in the Territory [illegible] made of the same amount of sales of public lands [illegible] the disposition of the fund [illegible] will make work enough [illegible] agent [illegible] commission [illegible] year. The Senate [illegible] the great [illegible] have [illegible] under [illegible] papers. The time given the commission [illegible] they [illegible] report to the next Legislature [illegible] the commission will amount to $[illegible] and the incidental expenses [illegible] probably [illegible]. The commission not much can be said [illegible] demanded [illegible] Neither of them [illegible] the investigation and the business will be together in the hands of the accountants. Mr. [illegible] honest, upright [illegible] and I do not think he will be disposed to make a report more unfavorable to the State officers than will be [illegible] by the facts, but I somewhat doubt if the same can be said of the other member of the commission.

THE HERALD-FAY INVESTIGATION.

[illegible] before the final adjournment last night Mr. Baldwin submitted a report on the matter of the charges preferred by the Herald [illegible] against Mr. Fay, of corruption and purchase in the Senatorial election. Just as I predicted a long time ago, the report was a general whitewashing affair. It recited that the committee had examined Messrs. Patterson, Semple and Pennoyer of the Herald and Mr. [illegible] Cole, that so far as the investigation had proceeded nothing was elicited upon which the Herald [illegible] that after the report of the committee had been agreed and [illegible] days ago the committee had received a communication from Semple [illegible] stating that they had [illegible] the committee [illegible] and [illegible] witnesses and submit [illegible] witnesses which they wished to introduce; that in consequence of the lateness of this application and the inability of the committee to complete such an investigation they had declined the proposition, and the committee asked to be discharged. This was substantially a report exonerating Fay and letting the Herald off. The trick of the Herald people in making their proposition at a late date to allow of its acceptance by the committee was to create and leave the impression that although nothing had been found to substantiate their slander upon Mr. Fay, they were prepared by a formidable array of witnesses to prove their charge, but were denied the opportunity by the committee. The committee fell into the [illegible] partly because they had [illegible] for the investigation, partly because they thought a general whitewash would be better policy for all hands. Mr. Cornelius, a member of the committee but who had nothing to do with making the report, objected to it because he believed the charge compromised not only the reputation of Mr. Fay but the honor of the Senate. If the Herald's charges were true the fact ought to be shown, so that the Senate could take such action as might be necessary to protect its honor and dignity. If the charges were false that fact should be shown, that the Herald might be dealt with according to the justice of the case. He did not believe it possible that nobody was to blame; somebody had done wrong, and he thought it due to all the parties concerned that the committee should report so as to fix the responsibility where it belongs, instead of passing so lightly over the matter and making everything lovely. Mr. Fay thought that the report was a queer way of doing him justice. He had been charged with a crime; had demanded an investigation; either he was guilty or the Herald had uttered a base slander on him. He proceeded to castigate the Herald people in very caustic language. After various members of the committee had explained that the investigation had not been a very thorough one and that they fully believed the charges against Mr. Fay were unfounded, Mr. Cornelius offered a resolution that the Senate fully exonerates Mr. Fay of the charges preferred by the Herald, and that T. Patterson and Eugene Semple, proprietors, be brought before the bar of the Senate and publicly reprimanded. Mr. Fay, while he was gratified with the language of the first part of the resolution, objected to the latter clause as he did not desire that any other reprimand should be administered to the Herald proprietors and editor than that embodied in the Senate's declaration of its belief in his innocence. Mr. Hendershott offered a substitute for the resolution declaring it to be the opinion of the Senate that the Herald's charges against Mr. Fay were base and false and beneath the dignity of any respectable newspaper. Mr. Cornelius accepted the substitute. Mr. Burch objected to it as being too harsh and severe in language. He was evidently one of those who wanted to have everybody shake hands and forget and forgive. Mr. Hendershott said that his purpose had been accomplished in the introduction and reading of the resolution, and he would now withdraw it. The whole matter after much talk was disposed of by the adoption of Mr. Cornelius' resolution amended so as to exonerate Mr. Fay. Every Senator present except Mr. Cochran voted for it.

THE [illegible] AMENDMENT.

There has been a perfect mania here among members to amend the code. Mr. Hendershott got in a palpable hit at that class of legislators yesterday. A scalp bill came in from the House, and having been passed to a second reading, Mr. Hendershott offered the following amendment: "Provided that at any time if the citizens of Lane or any other county shall discover any two legged cayote perambulating thereabouts they may [illegible] premiums for their scalps in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore made, and may double the same in case of any [illegible] on the part of such cayotes to alter or amend the [illegible] act." [illegible] the amendment adopted [illegible] great laughter. The bill however was [illegible] itself [illegible] the [illegible] liberty to alter or amend the [illegible].

[illegible] TAKES A STAND AND STANDS BY IT.

[illegible] the [illegible] of the House last evening Mr. D[illegible] figured as the central figure. When the Senate's buncombe resolutions of '38 and so on down for all subsequent time [illegible] the House and were read, Mr. D[illegible] moved that they be bound in calf and returned to the Senate with the compliments of the House. The Speaker declared the motion out of order, probably on the [illegible] and that it would be if adopted a rough joke on the calf. When the question was put on the adoption of the resolution Mr. D[illegible] said that as he approved a part of them and disapproved of others he would vote [illegible] such as he [illegible]. The Speaker said that was not [illegible] and unless the House excused him he must [illegible]. Mr. D[illegible] said he had voted as he desired and would stand by it. The Speaker threatened a resolution of censure [illegible] but D[illegible] [illegible] the Speaker [illegible] threat [illegible] Still D[illegible] stood [illegible]. Finally [illegible] the House [illegible].

[illegible]

All the [illegible] the two [illegible] system not only as [illegible] but in respect of the material aid and comfort they would have afforded the parties into whose pockets the appropriations were to be poured. The bill to create the office of State Superintendent of common schools got aground between the [illegible] utmost efforts [illegible] to get it afloat again failed [illegible] yesterday [illegible]. A great number of [illegible] which had in less time been [illegible] the House [illegible] yesterday [illegible] order [illegible] here would [illegible] residence here for awhile.

[illegible]

The [illegible] the cases of [illegible] which [illegible] Mr. [illegible] of the House from [illegible] surprised [illegible] case [illegible] last evening [illegible] great [illegible] known [illegible] or who have been exp[illegible].

A New York dispatch [illegible] has this: At a semi monthly meeting of the Board of Education yesterday a resolution against the use of the rod in public schools was adopted with over three negative votes. A resolution looking to an investigation into the whole system of rewards and punishments in schools was adopted.

[illegible] —The home provided for Mrs Du[illegible] by the generosity of the people of Portland has been completed and the family are now [illegible] comfortably fixed for a time apparently. The [illegible] is built upon a lot donated to Mrs Du[illegible] by Mr [illegible] [illegible] perhaps [illegible] making the property valued at not less than $1,500. [illegible] the case, Mrs Dupenning [illegible] a widow [illegible] by a misfortune which befell her husband, and with six or seven little ones to be provided [illegible] the ruling hand of a kind Providence [illegible] asserted itself. We have been informed [illegible] children are orderly well behaved and [illegible]. The eldest is [illegible] years of age. [illegible] the mother has always given them the [illegible] instruction which leads to virtue and happiness [illegible] she is filled with a deep sense of gratitude [illegible] goodness of the public towards her, in her [illegible] affliction. It is only another evidence of [illegible] inscrutable ways of the Infinite Being in [illegible] all His moral government. We believe [illegible] Dupenning fully deserves all she has received.

[illegible] OF THE ORIFLAMME —The [illegible] sailed from San Francisco for Portland with the following passengers yesterday: [illegible] L Sawyer Chas English G S Philbrick, [illegible] Easton, C S Holm Alfred Booker [illegible] Austin, [illegible] West, H W Lake and family, Wm G [illegible]dwin [illegible] G Ezan A L Spencer C A Cole A H [illegible] A A Gross, wife and mother, Mrs N [illegible] J C Powers Mrs Capt Noyes and [illegible] Miss H Piper, Mrs Butterfield and two [illegible], Miss A Skitton Mrs M A Edmonds and [illegible] E F Phelps wife and sister, Major A A [illegible] and daughter, C L Wilson, W H George, [illegible] Harrell and two children, W G Van Horn [illegible] B H Lemson, Capt T [illegible] Van Horn wife [illegible] daughter, G P Rummelin and family, H C [illegible].

We [illegible] that the day will be one of celebration, [illegible] find that the entire department, members of the Common Council, members of the [illegible] and citizens generally will be invited to participate.

[illegible].—Messrs. Collins & Marston [illegible] where they may be found by parties desiring to purchase the new patent lamp [illegible], said to be the only safe and [illegible] lamp in use. It certainly possesses many decided advantages over the [illegible] in use, and we hope it may in [illegible] the dangers of parlor magazines [illegible] to lend our influence in favor of [illegible] at all events, and after an examination [illegible] of the lamp, recommend it to [illegible]. [illegible] EDUCATION.—We are glad to [illegible] the article in this paper yesterday upon [illegible] of compulsory education, has attracted notice from quarters where it will be likely [illegible] good. There is most certainly [illegible] for the evil complained of, and we [illegible] Portland's best citizens will take the [illegible] consideration. The same subject is [illegible] discussed in San Francisco, in [illegible] and other cities.

Mr Mosher [illegible]

Mr Crane [illegible] asked to have his name stricken from the report

Mr Mosher said the intention of the report was to prevent the payment of all bills until they are proven to be correct

Mr Trevitt moved to amend by saying a committee of two from each House to assemble at the Capital and to appoint an extra [illegible] unable to agree. The amendment was adopted

Mr Mosher moved to amend [illegible] to investigate the matter of the [illegible] the Penitentiary. He had heard [illegible] charged by a Senator that there had been a fraud in the sale. He wished the matter inquired into

Mr Stout said [illegible] when it was believed to have been worth $30,000. Many persons including [illegible] to preclude the charge of fraud for political purposes. He had not a [illegible] fraud but thought the penitentiary was worth no more than $[illegible]

The amendment was adopted

Mr Mosher thought three months too short a time. Cutting down the time would make the investigation of no avail

The motion was lost and the resolution was adopted

PILOTAGE AND TOWAGE

A message from the Governor announced his approval of H B 53 an act relating to pilotage and towage on the Columbia and Willamette rivers

HOUSE Evening Session

SALEM Tuesday, Oct [illegible]

The House met at 7 o'clock P M

After some delay a quorum was obtained and the House took up the special order—S B [illegible] an act to tax unnaturalized foreigners, who have not declared their intention to become citizens of the United States

Mr Hare moved to strike out section 10, which provides that persons who comply with the act shall be protected in all the rights and privileges of American citizens. He said this would give the Chinaman complying with the great Democratic bill, the right to vote. He was surprised that Democrats should make such a proposition. He objected to their having this right or all the rights he himself possessed. He call[illegible] Mr Amis [illegible] this

Mr Amis said it came with bad grace for a gentleman who opposed a resolution asking that the Chinese treaty be abrogated to propose such an amendment. This was a bill of vital importance and needed no amendment

Mr Hayden said the proposed amendment struck at the real value of the bill and he wanted to see it voted down

Mr O Regan said the bill struck at the unnaturalized foreigner. He had no [illegible] growing out of his head and wore no pigtail, but before he became a citizen he was no more an American than a Chinaman. He thought the bill claimed royal descent for its friends and struck at all persons of foreign birth

The amendment was lost

Mr Whiteaker offered to amend by excluding Europeans

Mr Dorris offered to amend the amendment by excluding white persons instead of Europeans from the operations of the act

Mr Hare favored the last amendment only. He feared it would admit half white Chinamen under the ruling of the Courts. Did not know if it would admit Turks; did not know if they came from Shem or Ham, or what crowd they came from

Mr Whalley gave a learned disquisition as to the causes of difference of color and moved to substitute the word "Caucasian" as definite

Mr Amis said he was in earnest in trying to get the thing through, but complained that those who ought to work for the bill lay back and said nothing. He insisted on fighting all the amendments, as they were hostile to the bill and calculated to send all cases to Judge Deady's cock pit, where they would be disposed of on the basis of transgressing treaties etc. He insisted that the amendment should be fought

Mr Dunbar said he was not particularly stuck after this bill but he favored the amendment of Mr Dorris to use the word white as a Chinaman might be born in Europe and emigrate to this country with his queue and he couldn't stand that

Mr Hayden was able to defend his own motions and he demanded his. He wanted to give the white foreigner a show if the Chinaman had to have a year's grace in consequence

Mr McCoy opposed all amendments as dangerous to the bill and so he was afraid of the one which had just come from Polk

Mr Townsend liked to see the gentleman on the other side take so much interest but feared he could not accommodate them and spoil the bill

The amendment of Mr Hayden was adopted

Mr Dorris said this amendment carried out the expressed intentions of the friends of the bill

Mr Helm said they were able to adopt amendments without help from the other side

Mr Hare said he was glad to know they were able to carry out a measure so [illegible]. He declared that the bill would only apply to white foreigners and not at all to Mongolians and showed how such would be the practical effect of the bill

Mr Amis wanted to amend to except Mongolians in Multnomah and Washington counties which was ruled out of order

Mr O Regan said he represented foreigners (many of them and Democrats too) voted for him. He could not stand to see the foreigners struck at by this bill. As a politician he would like to see it [illegible] but as a man he trusted they would not do what would make them laughed at north south east and west and by Democrats too

Mr Fulton placed on file his protest against Wasco county being excepted from the operation of a bill reducing the fees of officers

Mr Dunbar rose to a point of order—that the gentleman should have filed his objections at that time.

The Speaker ruled the point to be in order

The committee appointed to examine the books and accounts of the State Superintendent of the Penitentiary made a report recommending that a committee be appointed to sit in the recess and examine said accounts and that the accounts found correct be paid and all fraudulent ones suspended. The report was laid on the table

S. B. 55 was taken up, an act to pay $800 expenses of contested elections. The bill passed—ayes 20 nays 7

Mr Lockhart rose to a question of privilege. The member from Wasco had stated on the floor to-day that bribes had been offered and he moved that the member Mr Fulton be required to make a statement to this House as to what bribes have been offered and to whom and for what purpose

The motion was carried and Mr Fulton related the circumstance. On Saturday evening he was approached by Mr Seller of Portland an old Democrat and an old acquaintance who urged him to vote for the bill. He stopped me back and said Mr Holladay was [illegible] and asked me to [illegible] which I declined when he told me it would be for my interest and money in my pocket if I would vote for the bill. He said he would see that it was one or two thousand dollars in my pocket and afterward when I was in the House he wanted to speak with me, and I would not be [illegible]. He (Mr Fulton) would as willingly have stated the facts to day as to night.

Mr Dunbar (sotto voce)—I move that Mr Seller be required to pay the $2,000 (Laughter)

The House adjourned to 8½ o'clock to morrow morning.

FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT

Mr Trevitt offered a resolution [illegible] of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The resolution was adopted—ayes [illegible] nays [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr Fay [illegible] special order [illegible] S B [illegible] ... Baker [illegible]

Mr Brown (Baker) moved [illegible] the table [illegible] ... Mr Hendershott said [illegible] Senator from Baker whether [illegible] that the little bill to give $10,000 to the Baker City Academy

Mr Brown replied that the bill [illegible] the Academy [illegible]

Mr Mosher [illegible] ... Portland [illegible] ... the name of Mr Holladay [illegible] against the Democratic party but after. He asked Democrats if they were ready to [illegible] a measure

Mr Burch thought the discussion of the bill would [illegible] consuming valuable time

Mr Stout desired to speak upon the bill as he would thus probably discharge the last public duty which the people of Multnomah would ever demand of him. He alluded to the three daily newspapers [illegible] two [illegible] representing the two political parties and the [illegible] in the interest of the man who was trying [illegible]. He [illegible] the bill a fraud and said it had been made the basis for [illegible] ... He preferred to have no personal prejudices, and no unfriendly feelings towards Mr Holladay. This disposition he had exhibited by official acts heretofore

Mr Burch—I desire to say in reply to the remarks of the Senator from Multnomah about frauds, that two years ago [illegible] were [illegible] that—

The President called the Senator to order

Mr Burch resumed. The petition of citizens of Multnomah county was a sufficient answer to the charges of fraud. The petitions were in the Senate a week without any attempt at opposition from anybody in Portland. He asked why the leading men of Portland who are said to be opposed to the bill had not taken interest enough to come up and say a word against it. He had not seen either Mr Ladd Mr Ainsworth or Mr Reed here

Mr Stout—They are no lobbyists

Mr Burch said he recollected that they were in the lobby two years ago, when they were interested in a railroad measure. He had made up his mind carefully and with reference to the rights of the people, and had made up his mind to vote for the bill

Mr Baldwin had no quarrel with the individual to be benefitted by the bill. He wished there were more men as able and willing to expend their money in building up the State but he would not like to see them try to put their feet upon the necks of the people. He regarded it as an outrage and a fraud upon the people of Portland and should therefore vote against it

Mr Newby was as much interested in that road as any other man but he could not do what he was sworn not to. He was of the opinion that the bill is unconstitutional. It proposes to aid the Willamette Valley Railroad Company a corporation and therefore in violation of Section 9 Article 1 of the Constitution, which he read. He moved the previous question

The motion to lay on the table failed

The amendments were adopted and the bill passed by the following vote

Ayes—Messrs Brown (of Marion) Burch Cornelius Hendershott Holtz aw Moores Patterson Powell Strahan Thompson Trevitt and the President 12

Mr Dorris—I will explain why I introduced this resolution

Mr Dorris—I think not Mr Shuck. Some days ago I offered a resolution to allow Mr Howell fifty dollars for his services in examining the books of the penitentiary. Manifesto of General Trochu

A few days ago Gen Trochu addressed to the Mayor of Paris the following determined and expressive manifesto through him to be communicated to the Parisians

It is necessary to restrain the legitimate popular enthusiasm and to guard the interests at stake, awaiting patiently the day when the army carries its efforts and its offensive operations beyond the enceinte. This restraint to the gallant defenders may be irksome but it is imposed as a measure of safety. No infantry can face the Prussians unless accompanied and supported by artillery equalling in calibre and strength that of the Prussians. Without as formidable artillery we clearly could not cope with them. Therefore we are preparing artillery instructing cannoniers and are rapidly arming the troops with improved arms and drilling and accustoming them to the rapid firing of rifles. We must avoid exposure to a disaster which neither our bravery nor our moral superiority could avert or overcome. I will not accede to the pressing public impatience, but shall pursue to the end the plan which I have traced out—without revealing. In return, I ask the continuance of the popular confidence which has been reposed in me

The Shivering Season

The loss to the laboring classes of the United States caused by fever and ague has been estimated at upwards of two million dollars per annum. German Republican Protest Against the Annexation of Alsace and Lorraine

The following is the most significant part of the speech for making which Dr. Johann Jacoby was arrested at Konigsberg:

The principal question with which we are to discuss is: has Prussia or Germany a right to annex Alsace or Lorraine to itself? We are told Alsace and Lorraine formerly belonged to Germany. France gained possession of them by fraud and force. Now we have conquered the French, is it more than right and proper that we should take back the prize, that we should ask for the restoration of our stolen property? Gentlemen, do not be led astray by such fine sounding words. And even if you were to be offered all the riches in the world, do not bow down to the idol of Force. Test these fine sounding words, and you will find that they are nothing but a cloak for the old barbarian law of Right. Alsace and Lorraine, we are told, were German property, and must again become German. What! we ask. Have Alsace and Lorraine, then no inhabitants, or are the dwellers in these provinces so many senseless things of which you can without more ado take possession, and which you can push hither or thither just as you will? Have they, by war, forfeited their rights? Have they become slaves, whose fate the conqueror can arbitrarily decide? Even the most zealous, the most thorough going, advocate of annexation admits that Alsatians and Lorrainers are, body and soul French, and wish to remain so. And, even had they as bitterly as possible offended against us, it would be still contrary to all human right that we should by force make them Germans—that we should against their will incorporate them into Prussia or any other German State. Gentlemen, there is an old proverb, which, on account of its truth, has become a universally admitted principle of morality: 'What would you not like to be done to yourself do not do to others.' How would we, how would our National Liberals—like a victorious Pole on the ground of right, to demand back and annex the provinces of Posen and West Prussia? And yet the very same reasons could be validly advanced in favor of such a measure as the advocates of the annexation of Alsace and Lorraine now bring forward. No, gentlemen; it is our duty to oppose such movements of national self-seeking. Let us hold to the dictates of right—as in private, so let it be in public life. Let us proclaim it as our deep, firm conviction, that every incorporation of foreign territory against the will of its inhabitants is a violation of the rights of a people to decide for itself and therefore, as blamable as it is dangerous. Unblinded by the intoxicating success of the moment, let us raise our protest against every violence to the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine. He alone who respects the freedom of others is himself worthy of freedom."

At the conclusion of this energetic speech the meeting passed the following resolution, "The members of the popular party, here assembled, express as their conviction, that neither the declaration of war by Napeleon, nor the German feats of arms, give the conqueror a right to dispose of the political fate of the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine. On the ground of the right of a nation to decide for itself, in the interest of freedom and of peace, we protest against every forcible annexation of French territory.

"I was walking by the banks of the Loire, when I perceived a dog, something of a setter trotting up and down by the water's edge. He went and came with uneven steps, sometimes stopping short as if he were pondering some weighty matter. His proceedings roused my curiosity, and concealing myself behind some young trees, I determined to watch him. The dog, who was old, thin, and to a certain extent deprived of the use of his hind legs, went on in the same manner for more than a quarter of an hour, then approaching the edge of the river bank at a steep place, he sat down and looked sadly at the water. Presently, having finally resolved on his course, he raised himself on his poor paralyzed paws, made a spring, and threw himself into the Loire. I ran to the place from whence he fell, and saw him carried off by the stream without making the slightest resistance. As he came near the bank I called him gently, and held out my cane that he might take hold of it. He made no sign. I tied my handkerchief to the end of my cane, and threw it to him, he turned his head away sadly and drifted off. I lost sight of him at the end of a few minutes. He must, no doubt, have sunk. Feeling persuaded that this unfortunate dog had actually chosen death by a deliberate act of his will, I mentioned the circumstances to several persons, and inquiries were made which elicited the fact that the poor animal had belong to a gardener, who, seeing him infirm and useless, had pitilessly driven him from his home. He had wandered for a whole month in the fields and about the farms, receiving more blows than crusts, till he preferred a violent death to his miserable existence."

A cable dispatch, dated London, October 20, gives this: The Times, in an editorial this morning, says that [illegible], having semi-officially announced that all attempts to secure peace must first be directed to inducing the French people to acknowledge their need of peace, as the indispensable basis upon which it is possible to secure such a peace, and whereas Napoleon, who probably rightly interprets the feeling of France, having declared last Monday that no government could remain in power in France which should grant a cession of territory, these events prove that the opinions of France and Germany are hopelessly irreconcilable. The Times therefore urges, powerfully, that England immediately protest to both the belligerents against continuing the war, which is threatening to break France to pieces, and allow Germany, with perfect consciousness, to maintain a government similar to that of Poland, and form a new quadrilateral, guarding a new Venice.

SECURE A HOME!!
THE RIVERSIDE
HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION!
OF
EAST PORTLAND, OREGON,

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to their Stock.

Application for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before the books were opened, and a large number of Shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and [illegible] will convey a good idea of the plan and workings of the Association, the location of its land, etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready for the purpose of shares. As it is with one of the Portland Homestead Association, the plan of organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are [illegible] for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands consequent upon the co-operation of many individuals—shareholders—and the advance in value of the surrounding lands by reason of the increase of population and demand for room such as will follow near the city. The Riverside [illegible] Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated just south of Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the southeast boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The tract is in one strip along the Willamette river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile in length, the two strips being connected near the middle by three rows of blocks (with a street [illegible]), the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square, [illegible] streets running at right angles, [illegible] all lots, along the river front. [illegible] number 500, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents exactly a lot, with an undivided interest in the 20 fractional lots. [illegible] tional shares are to be sold [illegible] for the benefit of the Association, [illegible] coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association [illegible] mine to do it, the choice of lots will be [illegible] will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sale [illegible] the original price of shares [illegible] equally among the whole [illegible] Thus, if a person wants a lot [illegible] and is willing to pay $100 [illegible] or less as the case may be [illegible] the lot or block as his individual property [illegible] premium being divided among the [illegible] of shareholders. It will be [illegible] No man can make a dollar [illegible] out also making a dollar for every other shareholder. There is no [illegible] the property, by some [illegible] liable to happen in the case of [illegible] tract of land must be judged by [illegible] but considering the steady and [illegible] vance on real estate in this city [illegible] hood, and at East Portland and [illegible] last year or two, it is [illegible] values to go back.

In the Riverside [illegible] tions seem to have been [illegible] monopolies of shares. No [illegible] buy more than the number of shares [illegible] three blocks, or twenty-four [illegible] terminating the operations of the Association [illegible] restricted to the same number [illegible] shares may pay down $60 per share [illegible] exempt them from all [illegible] pay $15 quarterly with [illegible] share, payable with the first [illegible] liable in this latter case to [illegible] other) assessment of $2 per [illegible] payment of the shares in full [illegible] as above, the holder is [illegible] and his proportion of all the [illegible] all sources. No officer of the [illegible] paid for services [illegible] gets $25 per month, so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about [illegible] above the water. There is no part of the [illegible] row of blocks but [illegible] Portland and the river [illegible] stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is, every foot of it, rich [illegible] soil and adapted to gardening [illegible] tiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this [illegible] affording the means of irrigation [illegible] ficient to supply pure water [illegible] whole tract. There is not a waste foot [illegible] lot in the entire tract. Under all [illegible] tages, it would seem impossible that [illegible] be any chance of loss to shareholders [illegible] year each shareholder, if he [illegible] perfect title to as many lots as [illegible] represent, or he they continue [illegible] vided, with the Association while [illegible] tion may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD.

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of buying [illegible] skirts of this city and East Portland [illegible] discussed here among all [illegible] "Riverside" just south of East Portland [illegible] been established. The site selected [illegible] ing a little over a mile south of the ferry [illegible] shaped like the letter H, one side of which [illegible] in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the tract [illegible] but a trifle above the other [illegible] forty or fifty feet above the river, [illegible] sive view of Portland, East Portland, [illegible] the Willamette river for several [illegible] fertile and is partly covered with [illegible] tract of land just wide enough for [illegible] with an avenue between them, [illegible] of the H (which has already been [illegible] the east. This last tract of land is [illegible] valley which is now under a high state of [illegible] The soil on the whole length runs a [illegible] water that is as clear as crystal. With [illegible] Association proposes to have water [illegible] pipes to every portion of the [illegible]
